

This Is PRINCETON

(There are estimated to be about 5,000,000 victims of alcoholism in this country at the present time. Only about 8 percent of them are members of Alcoholics Anonymous, a still little understood and even occasionally maligned organization whose sole purpose is to help victims of this widespread illness achieve and maintain their sobriety.

Here is part of the story of what alcoholism and AA mean to Princeton, written by a member of AA who, after 15 years of almost continuous, fruitless efforts to combat the affliction, has found in AA four years of "transformation" from the huffing, destructive moment.

THE HIDDEN ONES

Man with a Brief Case. Jim S., a personable, prosperous-looking young commuter boards the morning train to Philadelphia, finds a seat, puts his hat and newspaper down, then goes with his attache case to the small vestibule at the end of the car. Twenty minutes later he returns to his seat. At 30th Street Station he checks his attache case in a locker, takes a taxi to the advertising agency where he was, until "something happened," a few years previous, one of the bright young men. In the evening he reverses the process, unchecks the attache case, "reserves" a train seat, goes with ease to the vestibule, returns to his seat just before the train reaches Princeton Junction.

Eight years ago, this ritual was repeated daily. As Jim S. now tells it with a smile, after eight years of sobriety in AA: "The attache case had nothing in it but a bottle of vodka... with square sides though it wasn't anywhere nearly as square as I was in what I was doing so it wouldn't bump around in the case. A new bottle every day. But I still can't figure why I went through all that locker routine at the station—it just cost me vodka money."

Jim was, until he joined AA, one of "the hidden ones," suffering from the still-stigmatized by some secret sickness, alcoholism. A conservative estimate by a Princetonian who knows much, but readily admits there is much more to be known, about the "why" of alcoholism is that there are at least 750 compulsive drinkers in and around Princeton, whose compulsion is in some degree empty the shells of a dozen adversely affecting the lives of extra eggs, carefully fill them perhaps 3,000 Princetonians, with whiskey using an eye-dropper and then seal them including themselves.

But Jim, like about 40 others, fortunately and finally acknowledged his highly abnormal drinking pattern. As John F., a nine-year Princeton AA member says, "Jim quit trying, worked fine for a while," she continued. "I had it rigged with my butcher, in advance. Whenever I called up and ordered a turkey, he would run to the nearest liquor store, get a couple of pints and stuff the turkey with them. Or a chicken would do the same."

"The way out, though, worked fine for a while," she continued. "I had it rigged with my butcher, in advance. Whenever I called up and ordered a turkey, he would run to the nearest liquor store, get a couple of pints and stuff the turkey with them. Or a chicken would do the same."

"For a time, Bill seemed to believe my story about the terrible sale the butcher had on poultry. Then he started to object to the unvarying diet. Finally, of course, he found out."

What AA Does in Princeton. One reason that Jane's ingenuity but highly self-damaging arrangement with her butcher failed was because of the usual non-AA alcoholic's failure to realize what one Princeton group member points out. "You can hide the bottle, maybe, but you can't hide the drinks, especially from yourself."

For alcoholism, unlike other illnesses, is "a self-inflicted, largely self-diagnosed and self-treat disease." According to Ralph T., a successful broker and a longtime member of AA in Princeton, the only known recovery lies within the victim himself, and it begins with both an admission and acceptance that one is, in fact and beyond doubt, a victim.

Finally, Jane's husband thought he had everything buttoned up so that the only way she could feed her compulsion would be by some esoteric method of fermenting tabagous at home. He alerted all the liquor stores and bars within miles (their friends already knew). He drove off to work each morning with his own modest supply locked in the trunk of his car.

But alcoholics are notoriously tricky and inventive when the compulsion is on them. Jane somehow was obviously still getting her supply.

Jane now tells the story. "Obviously I no longer could hide gin in an empty white vinegar bottle. Nor could I

This, in brief, is AA's prime purpose: to help alcoholics firmly establish and maintain their sobriety. As Dan W., another member of Princeton's "fortunate 40" puts it, "AA there is neither some sort of mysterious, ikon-worshipping cult of do-gooders, nor is it a one-stop sure-cure for alcoholism. But for anyone who does come to us, we will do everything in our power, and that's more than quite a bit, to help him.

"Of course, a few people decide that AA isn't the answer—but that still doesn't mean they can't and don't find sobriety. The all-important remission from their illness, elsewhere. But for the vast majority, AA is by far the most effective way. Besides, the meetings and the opportunities to know and to be of help to other alcoholics are more thoroughly rewarding experiences than I thought existed."

Princeton's AA groups are unswervingly serious about what they are doing. ("Why shouldn't I be?" says one member. "AA helped me get that sharp-elawel 'monkey off my back' after 20 years of living hell.") But, maybe because they have, through AA, been able to shake that 'monkey' loose, there is also a distinctly happy and friendly attitude on the part of most.

"AA is the best club I ever belonged to," quips one. "It's also the most exclusive and most expensive. Only about five per cent of all alcoholics in the country are members. And, despite the fact that there are no dues or fees, I figure it cost me about $15,000 in my years of drinking to qualify for membership."

No Blue-Noses, AA members are sometimes thought of as a kind of undercover group of prohibitionists. "Nothing could be further from the truth," one Princeton member said with emphasis. "We don't disapprove of liquor. On the contrary, we like it far too much. That's why we're here."

A new Princeton area resident who knows and understands the problem of alcoholics and alcoholism through years of scientific research is

Dr. Selden D. Bacon, director of the famed Center of Alcohol Studies now at Rutgers, formerly at Yale. He gives full acknowledgement to the part AA plays in helping an alcoholic rebuild his life. Says Dr. Bacon: "Meeting the problems of alcoholism successfully means the uprooting of the many old and fallacious conceptions and presenting new, more efficient responses to the age-old dilemma."

"Some of the most common misconceptions which still exist," he says, "are: that alcohol is the cause of alcoholism; that drunkenness and alcoholism are the same thing; that alcoholism is often inherited or can be blamed on a lack of will power; that alcohol is a stimulant; that alcohol causes a large percentage of crime; that most alcoholics come from the lower social and economic strata."

All of these ideas about alcoholism and a great many others are fallacious, Dr. Bacon points out. But, whatever the cause (physical, psychological or, more likely, both) those still comparatively few alcoholics who have sought

ASKS 100% ASSESSMENT

Township Appeals to County. Princeton Township has once again asked Mercer County to use a 100% assessment for real and business personal property.

Each year, the Township appears before the County Board of Taxation with this complaint and this request State Law requires a municipality to assess at 100% but not all of them do. An equalization table has been designed to level this out.

However, the Township believes that assessments should all be at 100 percent as a matter of principle. In addition, the Township doesn't think the county gives it proper credit for the constant process of revaluation that goes on within Princeton Township.

There is no county equalization table for the business personal property tax; however, the Township is now in a stronger position so far as this tax is concerned, because a recent court decision ordered Bergen County to go 100%.

Assessor Stuart Robson believes that the Township could save about $12,000 a year if the business personal property tax alone were 100%. It is possible that this aspect of the assessment problem may be taken to court, Mr. Robson said. The decision would be up to the Township Committee.

Mr. Robson and Township attorney Gordon Griffin appeared before the County Tax Board.

SMOKERS' PERMITS NEXT
For All PHS Pupils. Beginning March 1, teenage smokers at Princeton High School will have to carry a permit card signed by their parents.

The new ruling is one of four recommendations on smoking approved by the Borough Board of Education on Tuesday. The smoking permit will be required of all students. Currently, only ninth graders must have such a card for use in the smoking area outside of the building.

"I'll go along, but I believe the best solution to this problem is to eliminate smoking on all school premises," said Graham Rohrer, president. He said later that he was "a three-pack smoker who quit in '48."

YMCA RADIO HAMS HOLD OPEN HOUSE: The Princeton YMCA Radio Club will hold an open house Friday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 at the YMCA Dorothea House, 120 John Street. Licensed amateur radio operators who will take part in the program are seated from left: Carl Morgenstern, secretary; Ned Taylor and Steve Raleigh. Standing: John Lathan, Bill Mendez, treasurer; Richard Henry, Brian McGrath, vice-president; and Malcolm Bash, president. One of the features of the program, which is open to the public, will be the demonstration of a "Laser" from the RCA Laboratories. (Lanny Hoffman Photo)

Mr. Rohrer stated that the permit should cite the dangers listed by the Surgeon-General's office, "so that the parents who sign know what they're letting their child in for."

Teaching Plan. Acting upon suggestions made by Dr. Chester R. Stroup, superintendent, Kenneth Michael, high school principal, and their assistants, the Board endorsed an anti-smoking campaign in the schools.

The program will be planned by the physical education teachers in conjunction with the school principals. Their deadline is March 1. All students in grades 6 through 12 will be acquainted with the Surgeon-General's report, which will be supplemented by films and various teaching materials.

Efforts will be made to set up a cooperative program in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades of the schools in the sending districts.

The Board will enlist the aid of all PTA's. It endorsed the suggestion of Mrs. D. Barton Stevens, president of the Borough Elementary PTA, that the films be shown to Nassau Street School children "even before they start thinking about smoking."

Bond Sale on Tuesday

Bids for the $1,450,000 school bond issue will be opened at 8 p.m. on Tuesday by the Borough Board of Education.

"We anticipate a lively session," President Graham Rohrer says. "There are very few double-A bonds being offered these days."

The public session will be held at Princeton High School. Redemption agencies for the bonds, which fall due over the next 20 years, are Princeton Bank and Trust Company and Bankers Trust Company of New York.

"We are appalled at the smoking at the high school," Mrs. Muriel Vomacka of the high school PTA told the Board. "We approached Mr. Michael on this last year. We pushed it for the health classes, and that is where the films have been shown."

Out of Bounds. Professor Robert Lively inquired, "What's to prevent smoking across Houghton Street?" Dr. Stroup told him, "That's one of the problems we are working on."

The government, Mr. Rohrer commented, is about to ask young people to "assume a self-imposed code."

At the close of the evening, one board member said to another, "I notice you smoked fewer cigarettes tonight."

Announcement Due. The Borough and Township's joint study on possible school reorganization has reached a new phase.

"It looks like we will very soon acquire the necessary coordinator," Dr. Chester A. Stroup, superintendent of Borough schools, said to the Borough Board of Education Tuesday. "We'll announce this in a few days. We need somebody to be constantly on top of the study."

Dr. John McKenna, Township superintendent; Dr. Stroup and their staffs have been assembling school data requested for analysis by the joint committee.

VARIANCES APPROVED

For Housing Project. The Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment gave its approval on Thursday to variances requested by the Housing Authority for the much-debated low-cost 50-unit project for North Harrison Street. The matter will now go before Mayor and Council for final approval on February 11.

The Zoning Board granted the necessary density, backyard and off-street parking variances for which the Housing Authority asked. But not before it had sat through a rerun of arguments against the proposal by attorney William C. Baggett and arguments for it by Thomas P. Cook, lawyer for the authority.

Mr. Baggett, lawyer for Charles La Placa, who owns the land on which the project would be built, again stated that the Housing Authority had no right to come before the Zoning Board in the matter. As precedent, he quoted a similar hearing before the board in 1961.

Princetonians are doing more than helping to stamp out polio — they're grinding it under . . . A total of 13,670 received free Sabin oral immunization against Type Three polio during the past two Sundays here, according to Dr. Benjamin K. Silverman, general chairman of the program.

This is over 600 more than those who showed up for the Type One immunization clinics in December. . . . Add to the 13,670 an estimated additional one-third of the Borough and Township already immunized . . . and total immunization against Type Three comes to well over 90%.

Type Two polio vaccine clinics will be held in March . . . Why the greater number at the recent clinics than at those in December? Two probable reasons given some had taken the first vaccine elsewhere but not the other two: some heard from friends who had taken Type One here that the vaccine is flavorless and painless (it truly is), so they came for Type Three.

Meteorologic minutiae Last week's temperature went as high as 56° on Saturday, never lower than the 27° recorded on Thursday night . . . The warm days and the 1.62 inches of rain efficiently reduced snow and ice to a point where Princeton quit trying to look like Spitzbergen.

Front hall purse-grabber active again . . . Mrs. Rensselaer W. Lee, 120 Mereel Street, reports loss of wallet containing $150, taken from desk in front hall late Saturday afternoon. Other thefts include two last Wednesday . . . $80 taken from two desks in Wash-o-mat, 259 Nassau Street; $39 lifted from Graduate College room of Rodney Burton by someone who entered via a window.

No go in snow: Dale Hooey, Westminster Choir College student, couldn't budge his car from college parking lot last Saturday . . . The two rear wheels, equipped with snow tires, were gone Value: $50.

No haul. Three cars parked in dark corner of parking lot next to the Playhouse were broken into Saturday night . . . Front vent windows were forced open and glove compartments searched . . . All three car owners report that nothing apparently was taken especially not gloves, since nobody ever seems to keep them in the glove compartment anyway.)

In last week's TOWN TOPICS, two of the classified ads seemed to be related . . . One advertised the loss of a collie puppy, the other advertised the finding of a collie puppy. The two ads appeared a couple of pages from each other.

Late Wednesday, the phone started to ring in the puppy-owners' home . . . Had they seen the ad in TOWN TOPICS for the found puppy, was the question . . . They had, thanks.

Again the phone rang, same question, same answer . . . Eight such calls before noon on Thursday . . . By Thursday night there had been 18 . . . By Tuesday the number neared 30.

The point is not so much that people read (and even correlate) TOWN TOPICS classifieds . . . but that the lost puppy has been found. And thanks very much from the owners.

Person To Person

We learned that an English doctor recommends the wearing of a derby hat by motorists, and especially pedestrians, as a protection against head injuries in an accident. He said that medical records indicate that the worst injuries are in the head area, and that the derby was originally designed as a protective device. It seems that one of the earls of Derby invented the bowler hat more than a century ago to protect his head from branches while hunting on horseback. The doctor pointed out that racing drivers and motorcyclists protect their heads with crash helmets, but that far more people are injured in ordinary cars or as pedestrians than in racing or driving a motorcycle. So, perhaps the well protected motorist will be wearing seat belts and a derby hat . . . come to think about it, a gentleman's or lady's derby seems quite stylish too. Well, as you know, our profession is far removed from the style experts, and we're just passing along the facts, as we read 'em. News Of The THEATRES

HAPPILY EVER AFTER? Princess Hopes So. The Kingdom of Gloomy, ruled by King Glumpia and Queen Numda, is the setting for a spectacular musical called "Absolutely Time" which will be presented in gala performance for boys and girls Tuesday at 3:30 in McCarter.

The story follows severely classic lines as it traces the story of a nubile princess whose hand is promised to whichever prince brings the nicest present to her birthday party.

"Absolutely Time" refers to a royal proclamation in which King Glumpia announces that it's about time the princess got herself married.

Six professional actors from Maxillion Productions will sing the songs (audience participation, too!), wear the colorful costumes and pose before the scenery, all in only one hour. "Absolutely Time" is the second of the current Children's Entertainment offerings sponsored by the Princeton Borough Parent-Teacher Association. Tickets may be re-served by calling WA 1-6011 between 1 and 3 p.m.

DIRECTOR NAMED

At McCarter, William Francisco has been appointed Associate Artistic Director for the Winter-Spring Drama Series at McCarter Theatre.

Mr. Francisco will direct the opening production of "Othello" and "Much Ado About Nothing," which will enter the repertory on April 9.

McCarter's spring series has been designed for the quadri-centennial of Shakespeare's birth, and will offer in addition to the two plays mentioned above, "Romeo and Juliet," "The Taming of the Shrew" and "Richard III."

A graduate of Amherst and the Yale Drama School, where he later taught Mr. Francisco directed "Color of Darkness" last fall for off-Broadway. While he was at Yale, he served as stage-manager for the original production of Archibald MacLeish's "J.B." repeating the assignment later for the Brussels World's Fair.

In addition, Mr. Francisco produced, directed and wrote—as co-author—the off-Broadway musical, "Sap of Life." The touring production of "Kind Sir" with Arlene Francis, is on his current list of credits.

Rehearsals for "Othello" and "Romeo" have begun at McCarter on the new Festival Stage designed by Hugh Hardy. Cast announcements are due shortly.

Season subscriptions are now on sale for the Regular Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening series and for the popular-priced Sunday matinee performances.

BALLET GROUP COMING From San Francisco. One of the country's two major dance companies, the San Francisco Ballet, will make its first appearance in Princeton on Monday, February 24, in McCarter Theatre.

NEW "FESTIVAL STAGE" READY FOR ACTION: Wider, deeper and higher than its predecessor, McCarter's new Festival Stage was designed for Shakespeare, but is flexible enough to use for anybody. There's a new lower area in front of the apron (knocking out Row A), a higher "above" for balcony scenes, a new two-flight rear staircase out of audience sight for above entrances. Designed by stage architect Hugh Hardy, the complex was built at McCarter by the stage crew in three weeks. It can all be rolled away in an hour to make room for ballet or baritone.

This is probably the most important dance attraction at McCarter in the last decade, if not in the theatre's entire history," said Arthur Lithgow, McCarter's executive director.

The San Franciscans will present two different programs, one at 3:30 and another at 8:30, utilizing a company of 80, including orchestra. Tickets are now on sale at the box-office.

Under its chief choreographer, Lew Christensen, the San Francisco Ballet has won critical acclaim on five continents in the course of three State Department tours. It is Amerson, new general manager for McCarter, adding that "on the basis of the current reservation rate, we will end up substantially ahead of any previous winter-spring season.

The entire spring season will be devoted to Shakespeare, and teachers are taking advantage of the opportunity to expose boys and girls to Romeo and Iago, Desdemona and the Moor, "The Taming of the Shrew," "Much Ado About Nothing" and "Richard III" are also on the school matinee list, but "Romeo" and "Othello" are the popular ones.

PLAYS PLANNED

By Cercle Francais. Two one-act plays by Jean Cocteau and Raymond Queneau will be given Tuesday at 8:30 in Murray Theatre for members and friends of Le Cercle Francais de Princeton.

The first will be Cocteau's "La voix Humaine," with Micheline Herz, and the second will be "Exercises de Style," by Queneau in a staging by Francois Hoffman. Admission will be free for Cercle members, 50 cents each for non-members.

NEW STRAND

On Saturday The New Strand theater of Lambertville will celebrate its third anniversary, and a healthy young one it has turned out to be. It has presented more than 350 films from 15 countries, ranging in release date from 1897 to 1963.

It opens its third year on Saturday with its first non-film presentation, The Breisb Family Puppet Troupe, which will give a performance at 11 a.m. Then on Sunday, February 9, at 8 p.m., the sound of living theater will be heard at The New Strand for the first time since vaudeville bowed out in the early 'thirties.

On that Sunday, the Princeton Community Players will read two one-act plays, "Pound On Demand" by Sean O'Casey and the current off-Broadway success, "The Tiger" by Murray Schisgall. For details on these and other forthcoming New Strand programs, write: "The New Strand, Box 91, Lambertville, N. J."

Ladies Who Do (through Tuesday) is not what you're Another Woolf?

Will "In White America" be another "Virginia Woolf?" Can Duberman tie Albee?

These and other questions of portent are the subject of extensive panel discussions in the McCarter box-office these days as the old hands recall last year, when "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" had to make five appearances in Princeton before saturation.

"In White America" Martin Duberman's theatrical documentary, will come to McCarter for the second time on Wednesday, February 12 at 8:30. Tickets now available.

probably thinking it is. It's about ladies, all right, but they're octogenarian char-ladies. And they spend their late evenings "doing" up the offices of a wealthy London real estate operator.

By studying information found in waste-baskets during their cleaning work, the four ladies get enough tips to make a killing on the stock market. And enough money to keep their boss from knocking down their homes for an urban-renewal project.

The humor is mild, and there are too many discussions from the main story line. The idea behind it, though, is a unusual. Good for a few smiles.

Little Boy Blue and Pancho (Saturday matinees) is a special for children which will be shown at noon, 2 and 4. Filmed in Yucatan, it relates the adventures of a boy who goes Huck-Finning in the tropical forests there.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

Charade (now showing) is a stylish melodrama featuring Archie Leach and Audrey Hepburn. The setting is Paris, which never photographs badly and which never looked better than it does here.

Archie, who is now 60 is as usual debonair and well-threaded. He looks not a minute older than 45. Miss Hepburn, gowned by Givenchy, is impeccable in appearance and in her repartee.

The story is witty, suspenseful and entertaining — and pretty chillful every now and again as Leach and Hepburn move effortlessly among multi-murders to reach the source of the crime. Leach, by the way, is better known to some by his stage-name, Cary Grant.

COLOR!

Grey, Go Away. After a few days of rain on top of second-hand snow, there's nothing so bouncy to the eye as the high fashion colors of spring.

And if you don't think '64 is the spring for color, go down to Bellows and change your mind and your costume.

Assembled for south and summer is a group of tropical cotton prints—two-piece bathing suit, one-piece bathing suit, thigh-length popover, rib-length popover—all strewn with poppies, marigolds and some purple things that never saw any garden we know.

A silk shirt (white) has red parrot tulips with curving black stems, and a silk shirt (black) has pumpkin colored leopards and tigers.

On the bathing suit rack, the easy, round-shouldered look is the memorable one. Rose Marie Reid has a one-piece that looks like two, made with dark grey knit trunks and a blouson knit of natural colored yarn with a very low U back tied at the navel with a string tie.

A three-piece suit in white cotton pique with white cotton dot embroidery has boy shorts, bra top and a popover so widely cut it looks like a spinnaker. Those purple basketweave wool shorts go with a fuchsia and grey top which looks like fine chenille. The neck here is a low V, front and back.

As you have probably guessed, all the shorts, short culottes and skin pants are wildly colored, too, dyed with bright lilacs or lemons or lime-blossoms.

The easy look and the color carry over to the coat rack where you'll find sun yellow in a casual, loopy-weave coat, or melon in a splendid cape to spin out in swirls under a spring-blue sky.

Chanel herself might have sketched the blazer coat of grey-navy tweed with its double-breasted fold and gold buttons, or the deep, almost black navy with its caped sleeves lined with fire red and attached to the back with a brass button.

And while we're with Chanel, look at her influence on suits, if you please. You'll walk away in the white wool boucle with its slim, three-inch strokes of black looping the jacket together in front, and the sleeveless black crepe blouse with its easy bow.

Raw Jade silk makes a cocktail suit when you remove the tailored jacket with its deep reveres. Pale mauve tweed with a low-buttoned double-breasted jacket maintains its reserve even when you remove the jacket to show the mauve crepe blouse with its long sleeves (visible below the jacket cuff) and Chanel bow.

Giddy summer linens add to the spring at Bellows. One is "April Showers" with some silly embroidery about an umbrella, and another is "Money Tree" with coins sewn to a tree—that kind of thing. And surely you'll want the yellow or avocado Irish linen, straight and clean, with a bit of tracery at the bodice. Only $18.

White sharkskin curves sinuously around your curves, marked across the bodice top with a band of emerald and royal, repeated six inches above the hemline. It's a fitted skimmer, they tell us.

Dressing up? Color comes again in a wild silk print with hot orange, sizzling pink and humid violet. Maybe others, too, but we were too dazzled to see. The cut is lucid, with some simple drapery in the back.

A split-level chiffon has a softly straight skirt with a popover bodice of horizontal lucks; actually, it's all one piece. The print is a smudge of blues and soft sea greens.

musical family. He was graduated from the Paris Conservatoire in 1944, and in a short time became known as a skillful interpreter — of all things for a Frenchman! — of German lieder.

ORMANDY TO CONDUCT
At Westminster, Eugene Ormandy, director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, will conduct two Tercentenary concerts at Westminster Choir College next June.

Governor Richard J. Hughes, in making the announcement, said that Dr. Ormandy will conduct a Festival Orchestra composed of musicians selected from all over the nation. A program of symphonic, choral and chamber music performances is being prepared for the Festival, which will run from June 19 to July 5. Dr. Lee H. Bristol, president of Westminster, said also that contemporary composers and musicologists are being invited to lecture to the 300 young New Jersey musicians who will be sent to the Festival by State Rotary clubs.

Although M. Souzay is fluent in many languages and dialects (including an Irish brogue), he will confine himself to French and German when he appears in Princeton.

The baritone will open with three of Beethoven's art songs, continuing with the Four Venetian Songs of Gabriel Faure and the "Chansons Gaillardes" by Poulenc, and concluding with Schumann's "Dichterliebe" cycle.

After his American debut in 1950, M. Souzay was hailed by the New York Times for "sensitivity and musicianship." Since that time, he has appeared successfully not only in recital but in operatic performances, particularly as Golaud in "Peleas et Melisande" and as "Orfeo" in the Monteverdi opera.

M. Souzay was born in the Loire region of France of a

Peter Pan has pastel prints in polished cotton — how's that for a row of "p's"? A floral stripe is a pleasing variation on the theme, and the demure little all-over floral designs will start you thinking about spring dresses for a daughter.

Another polished Peter Pan has palest yellow and white asters on white, pastel hut not pallid in any sense. Comes in pinks, too.

Shift, Fore and Aft

A shift made from the Fabric Shop fabric greets you coming and going.

The Chambers Street shop has acquired three bolts of material you can use to make the kind of shift that has a panel pattern on the front, and a panel pattern on the back.

To begin with, there is a colorful, old-fashioned "Bicycle Built For Two" in summery colors against white. The other two designs stand out against a background of horizontal ticking. One is a combo of instruments and musical notes and the other says "Sugar and Spice — that's what little girls are made of" in front of a group of sugar bowls and spice jars.

flannel, or a yellow maize that looks like basketweave, or a shell pink flannel to harmonize with the pink-violet floral print in polished cotton.

OIL AND WOOD

Walnut Is Black, "Oil your own, or let us do it." The choice is yours, from The Furniture Barn on Route One.

What you've just bought, is a piece of furniture made of American black walnut, trimmed down to the simplest modern lines and ready for an oiled finish.

Boiled linseed oil (no, dear, you do not put linseed oil on the stove and bring it to 212. You buy what The Furniture Barn already has) is the compound used to bring these unpainted pieces to a rich, bitter-chocolate hue.

All you do, as the saying goes, is spread on the oil. If you wish, you can put on five or six coats, which will prevent those white cocktail rings, but will also bring about a bit more gloss than the pieces now on The Furniture Barn show floor.

What's available? A double pedestal desk, 53½ inches long, with deep file drawer and a pullout leaf for typewriter or elbow. It has a solid back, so that it can stand free in a room, if you wish.

A two-shelf bookcase with sliding doors of walnut or glass, a slatted bench, a five-drawer chest, 42 inches high — that kind of useful thing.

Prices are modest indeed. For a three-drawer chest, 31 inches high, the kind of indispensable utility piece that goes in any room, you pay $69.95. For an oval dining table with squared-off tapered legs, the price is $89.95.

Incidentally, one dining table is octagonal, its wedge-shaped components joined to make an eight-piece pie. Much too attractive to cover with a tablecloth. We saw it with two extension leaves, and their insertion makes quite an attractive geometric pattern out of that octagon.

Two upholstered chairs are in the group, one a high, fan-back the other a more conservative design. Arms are bare walnut on both. (Prices about $129.50.)

For an occasional table, you couldn't miss with an 18-inch square slab pressed firmly down on two slabs which are locked at right angles to each other. Sturdy enough to sit on, too. Looks like a "T" from afar.

The drop-door unit (desk or bart; the night table; the low, two-drawer chest and all the pieces in the catalog, are well designed, well worth your attention.

Topics Of The Town

At that time, Mr. Baggett, serving as lawyer for H. G. Houghton, won a decision against the Housing Authority, which had plans to erect the project on Mr. Houghton's land. Mr. Baggett also claimed that the Housing Authority was incorrectly assuming ownership of Mr. La Placa's land in the present case.

Only Suitable Location. Mr. Cook, who had introduced extensive evidence in support of the Authority's decision to buy Mr. La Placa's land for the project, stated to the board that most of Mr. Baggett's objections were not applicable. He testified that the land in question had been agreed upon by both the Public Housing Authority and the Princeton Housing Authority as the only suitable location in the Borough.

Mr. Cook was supported in his testimony by John B. Redding, chairman of the Princeton Authority, and by representatives of a number of community groups. Mr. Redding said that there were 19 families who could be transferred immediately into the new project from larger low-cost housing units in the Clay Street area.

There are already 11 additional applications on file for the new development, Mr. Redding said. Applications are taken only from people who lived in Princeton for a minimum of one year and whose age is 62 and over.

Kenneth Kessler, the housing authority's architect, described his completed site plan for the 50 units to the zoning board. He asked that the Authority be allowed one year in which to begin construction of the project once it is approved.

Ifurries Still Ahead. But before the Authority can proceed with its plans to build, it must await the approval of Mayor and Council at the February 11 meeting. It also faces a possible further legal bout with Mr. La Placa when he takes his own plans to subdivide his property before the Planning Board on February 4.

When and where will it all end? Nobody knows — but, in the opinion of one of Mr. La Placa's group, the final round could be a long way off.

Thursday night was La Placa night for the Zoning Board. Following the hearing on the Charles La Placa-Housing Authority contretemps, Anthony La Placa appeared before the board.

Represented by attorney Reese Hicks, the second Mr.

La Placa, Charles' brother, unveiled plans for a 252-unit "town house" apartment complex intended for the land directly across Harrison Street from his brother's battleground. The proposed development would require a variance because the land is at present zoned for two-family dwelling units.

"Like Stanworth," Mr. Hicks told the board that his client and a corporation consisting of Delwin Gregory and Edward Faroe intend to develop the complex. The architecture of the building would be similar to that used in Palmer Square.

Stated need for the apartments was that they would be "like Stanworth," which has been bought by the University for faculty housing. Underground parking for approximately 250 cars would be provided.

The Zoning Board deferred any decision on the proposal until it had more time to discuss the plans and the type of variance required. The matter may be continued until its next meeting on February 27.

The Anthony La Placa property is just to the north of the Harrison fire station. It was at one time under consideration by the housing authority as a location for its low-cost homes-for-the-elderly project.

with either Marquand Park or the neighborhood parks programs, the mayor added.

Borough and Township have budgeted the money for the director's salary, and will divide the financial responsibility on a formula basis, Mayor Patterson said, however, the director will technically be a Township employee.

The mayor also announced that Charles Henry, assistant Township engineer, has taken over sewer engineering problems formerly handled by the assistant Borough engineer.

It has been customary for this work to be done by the Borough assistant, but since Thomas Cawley's appointment to the post of Borough engineer, the department has been without an assistant, the Mayor pointed out. Mr. Henry's appointment not only fills in the gap, the Mayor said, but gives the Township a larger part in the joint sewer operations.

FOR SMITH: $3500 NET

And a Raffle Winner. Mrs. Charles W. Gregory, 40 Southern Way, won the $500, seven-day trip to Bermuda at the Smith College Club auction on Saturday. She is the first club member who has ever won the prize.

The annual auction made a net profit of more than $3500 for the club's scholarship fund. Mrs. William E. Schluter, chairman, announced this week. The figure is a record high.

Of the total, $809 came from the sale of raffle tickets and the remainder from the sale of baked goods and sandwiches, gifts at the gift table and the auction itself.

The auction drew the largest crowd ever. Mrs. Schluter said, and the sandwich situation grew so desperate that someone had to go out for more bread.

Bidders went home with such items as a new wig ($65), a valuable Oriental rug ($75) and gag sign (two cents).

OIL FIRM NAMED

In Personal Injury Suit. A $75,000 suit against Princeton Fuel Oil Company and four individuals has been filed in the U.S. District Court, Trenton.

The plaintiff, Ethel Firth of Penrock Road, Wilmington, Del., claims she suffered serious injury and possible permanent disability as a result of a two-car collision on August 22, 1963, near the intersection of Washington and Faculty Roads.

Named defendants are William J. Schannel of Wiggins Street, driver for the fuel company, and Dora M. Alexander of Readington, driver of the car in which the plaintiff was a passenger. Also, Douglass Robertson, owner, and his son, Douglass Jr. of 93 McLean Place, who was driver of the second car in the collision.

The plaintiff claims that Mr. Schannel contributed to the accident by "attempting to commence a left turn." She charges that her injury is the result of negligent and careless driving.

OK FOR "BALCOURT"

From Township Planners. Twenty lots in the "Balcourt" sub-division on Cherry Hill Road appeared in preliminary plan Wednesday by the Township Planning Board.

The land is being developed by Theodore Dean and Edward Sands. The Board also approved the final plan for two "Balcourt" lots on the north side of Balcourt Drive, a road which goes into the property from Cherry Hill.

Princeton Day Schools won Board approval for a traffic layout on The Great Road at the entrance to the new campus. The school is providing a traffic island, stacking lane, acceleration and deceleration lanes to accommodate the expected volume of traffic.

ganization's outgoing president, said that this growth reflected a national trend. She noted that similar societies have been developed in four other New Jersey communities.

Trustees elected at the meeting were Mrs. Lester Chandler, the Rev. Robert L. Cope, Mrs. Jackson English, Saul Fox, Mrs. Lenore Gemmell, the Rev. Dr. Robert Spears, Marshall Stalley, Mrs. John Criscitiello and Miss Nellie Offutt. Mrs. Gemmell was named president; Mr. Stalley, vice-president; Miss Offutt, secretary, and Prof. Carroll Pratt, treasurer.

The meeting featured a talk by Victor Wilwerth, executive director of the Delaware Valley Eye Bank, and a showing of the film "After the Dark." Located in Philadelphia, the eye bank is one of about 70 such organizations throughout the nation.

Mr. Wilwerth said that more than 14,000 pairs of eyes have been willed to his bank, including those of Governor and Mrs. Hughes. Those wishing further information may call any officer of the Princeton Memorial Association.

UNITED FUND TO MEET

For Annual Dinner. The Princeton Area United Community Fund will hold its annual dinner meeting Wednesday, February 19 at the Nassau Inn. The Dutch Treat dinner will begin at 7 and will feature the presentation of special awards.

The Gerard B. Lambert Community Service Award will be presented to a resident who has contributed to the community social service agencies. Past recipients include Thomas P. Cook, George R. Griffing, B. Franklin Bunn, John P. Poe and J. Douglas Brown.

There will also be an award for an outstanding contribution in some specific area of the social service field. Businesses which have aided the recent United Fund-Red Cross Campaign will be cited as well.

Included in the program will be the election of officers and the final report of campaign chairman Warren W. Wagner. Area residents interested in attending the meeting should call the fund offices at 924-5882.

CONFUSED BY FOG

Driver, Road Part. Driving in Friday evening's fog, Peter Solotovsky, 17, of Heather Lane, went through a "stop" sign he did not see at the foot of Herrontown Road, continued across River Road and 20 yards into the woods on the opposite side. Later, in typical English understatement, he told Township Police that "he was confused by the fog."

Mr. Solotovsky, who also told police he was unfamiliar with the area, was uninjured. A reflector sign and post owned by the Township were damaged as was the right headlight and grille of Mr. Solotovsky's 1963 station wagon. The car was towed from the woods by a wrecker.

PAHR MEMBERS TO MEET

To Act on By-Laws. Members of the Princeton Association for Human Rights will hold an organization meeting on Wednesday, February 19, at 8 in Community Park School.

The purpose of the meeting is to set up a permanent organization and by-laws, and to elect officers. In addition, there will be a review of PAHR's first half-year.

Gayraud S. Wilmore will give a brief talk. Mr. Wilmore is in charge of the Presbyterian Church's commission on race and religion.

PTA TO MEET

For Founders Day. Antiques will be on display, illustrating a program theme of "Old Timers" when members of the Kingston PTA gather Tuesday at 8 to celebrate Founders' Day.

The program will also include a discussion of the forthcoming school budget by two members of the Board of Education, and a question-answer period will follow.

PROMOTED: Arthur F. Gallant has been named a sergeant in the Borough Police force.

NAME GALLANT SERGEANT

Will Replace Applegate. Patrolman Arthur F. Gallant, 9 Erdman Avenue, has been selected by the mayor and Borough Police Committee to fill the vacancy created by Sergeant Randolph Applegate who will retire March 15. The appointment will become effective February 15.

Patrolman Gallant was named on a basis of written and oral examinations which were given to all 11 eligible patrolmen. In addition, Chief Peter J. McCrohan reported that the service record and seniority of each had seriously been taken into consideration.

For the past two-and-one-half years, Patrolman Gallant has been serving in the capacity of detective, although the Borough does not "officially" have any detectives on its roster. He joined the force in July, 1947.

LECTURE WEEK TO BEGIN

At Princeton Seminary. Three leaders of the Protestant Church will speak at Princeton Theological Seminary during Lecture Week, which opens in Miller Chapel on Monday.

Professor Hendrikus Berkhof of the University of Leiden will give six lectures on "The Doctrine of the Holy Spirit." Five addresses by Robert J. Havighurst of the University of Chicago will be devoted to "Christian Education."

"The Judeao-Christian Dialogue as a Contribution to the Missionary Orientation of the Church" is the topic of three lectures by Lithuanian-born Jakob Jocz of Wycliffe College, Toronto.

Addresses are scheduled for 9:30 and 11:15 a.m., Monday through Friday, and at 7:45 p.m., Monday through Thursday. A discussion program at 3 p.m., Monday through Wednesday, will provide an opportunity for questions. The film "The Great Conversation" will be shown at 3 on Thursday.

Too Much University Parking
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The University is basically the reason why most of us like living here and it has shown itself, over the years, an invaluable and benevolent member of our community. But its recently-adopted plan of peripheral parking seems to present a clear and present danger in that it is developing eye-sores in the heart of our town.

The sight of surveyors at Sheldon House and the recent purchase of a house on Alexander Street seem to forebode that the University Place parking lot is about to burst its bounds, blighting some of our most attractive areas. Sheldon House has been moved before and can doubtless be moved again but who wants to look at a parking lot in place of its handsome facade, fine trees and lawn?

The present parking plan is not, I understand, satisfying to the faculty and staff, who have to wade a half mile through slush to get to work. It must be expensive and is wasteful in that it ties up high-cost Borough land that is needed for human use.

Why not have one huge lot on the less valuable edge of town and run buses from there, looping through the campus, depositing people at their buildings? Or even a series of buses, like the school buses, picking up and delivering all over town?

Government takes care of most aspects of our lives but does not seem to provide for the fact that what our eyes rest on is important. We have inherited a town with charm and beauty. Let us quickly think how we can keep it that way, before it is too late.

(Editor's note: Says John P. Moran, an executive in the University's department of ground and buildings: "Sheldon House is not to be moved, torn down or its appearance from Mercer Street changed. The house on Alexander Street was purchased, and is now being used, for rental to a University family. A small parking area is being planned for the rear of Sheldon House, but its limited size and exact location will be fully explained to neighboring residents before any installation work is begun.)

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mother-to-Be Saved.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Princeton Small Animal Rescue League is an organization that Princeton can really be proud of. A group dedicated to finding homes for the homeless, the League does a magnificent job.

How grateful our family is for having had the opportunity of saving a young mother-to-be from being put to sleep this winter. We had been looking for a dog to adopt and the P.S.A.R.L. told us of this one.

An alert, intelligent, loving little animal, our adopted dog produced eight adorable puppies just a week after we took her in, and just before the cold weather set in earnest. It makes me shudder to think how that wonderful young mother might have fared if left to shift for herself with eight puppies and no home, no food, no care, when she needed it most.

With the untiring work of the League's adoption officer, Mrs. Graves, all the puppies have since found good homes, and we have a loving and grateful pet of our own. Eight homes — 35 children and adults — made happier in this one instance.

The League always seems to be ready to assist anyone who needs a pet or any small animal who needs a home. Want a pet? Find a stray? Have you called Mrs. Graves at WA 1-6122? Do call, you'll be glad you did.

NEARLY 400 VOLUNTEER

For Heart Fund Drive. Almost 400 women have signed up for the 1964 Heart Fund appeal in Princeton. Volunteers and captains, led by Mrs. Clifton C. Bennett, meet at 1:30 p.m. this Thursday for a kick-off session at the Princeton Inn.

The meeting will be conducted by Bess Nyerson, television panelist and former Miss America, who will discuss fund-raising methods. Dr. Aaron J. Heisen, Mercer County Heart Association president, is keynote speaker.

The campaign begins this Saturday and continues through February 29. Material to be distributed by the volunteers includes a fact sheet designed specifically for Princeton, "How Your Dollars Can Help Your Heart."

STUDENT FOUND DEAD

Gunshot Wound Is Cause. Robert P. Brown, 21, a Princeton University senior was found dead in his room Thursday night, the victim of a rifle wound in the head. Time of death was set at sometime the preceding Monday afternoon, by Dr. Leonard M. Berry, deputy county physician.

Mr. Brown's death was discovered by University proctors who had been called to the scene by undergraduates living in 1939 Hall, where Brown had lived alone in Room 233. A .22 calibre rifle belonging to Brown was found beside the body.

Mr. Brown, a resident of Celmsford, Mass., had been reported missing from examinations earlier in the week. He was last seen, according to police, at breakfast Monday morning.

Mr. Brown's grades, it was reported were good. He was a major in geology, and a meteorology book was found open on his desk. Borough police said the death was an apparent suicide.

SUSPICION CONFIRMED

Parking Tickets Rise. To the surprise of virtually no Princeton area motorist, the year end report issued by Peter J. McCrohan, Borough Chief of Police, revealed that 16,046 parking tickets were issued in 1963 by the Borough's men in blue — up 448 from the previous year.

If one includes moving violations (mostly speeding) a grand total of 16,837 tickets were issued in 1963 which Chief McCrohan said is "high for a town the size of the Borough." He added that the Borough also has over 1000 parking meters — also unusual for the borough's size. "And we enforce them," he said, which again comes as no surprise to Princeton shoppers.

As a result of this thorough meter surveillance, the Borough's coffers were enriched by $77,833, $1,731 more than in 1962.

Other figures in the report trace an undulating path. For example, the number of auto accidents in 1963 (326) and injuries (78) are almost identical to those of 1962 but the number of bicycle accidents continues to plummet. From 22 in 1960 they fell 50 percent to 11 in '61.

This year the number was down to three, a 66% drop from the 1962 figure of 9, a steady decline which prompted Chief McCrohan to remark that perhaps the newly-enforced bicycle ordinance may have played a major role in the drop.

Pedestrians were not so lucky, however. Thirteen were injured in accidents this year, eight more than the year before.

Other information: Up in 1963 were the number of disorderly person arrests, (12 more than the 78 arrested in 1962). Of the 90 fires investigated by the police (an increase of 21) half, or 46, were extinguished by them.

Dog Bites Drop. Dog bites were down from 30 to 26 and the police logged 33 fewer hours of overtime in 1963, which underlines a considerable amount of efficiency somewhere. Despite the fewer hours, the patrol fleet of three cars, one detective car and one motorcycle traveled a total of 108,158 miles this past year, nearly 10,000 more than in 1962.

It was the biggest one-year jump ever, according to Chief McCrohan who said it reflected the department's practice of switching to one-man patrol cars. "Instead of having two men in one car, we send only one man as much as possible, instead of one car on patrol, we have two."

In the world of crime, the number of breaking and enterings rose markedly from 35 to 88, a rise attributable almost entirely, the chief said, to a rash of burglaries in the dormitories of Princeton University — all of which were listed as B&Es. The frequency of grand larceny was up from six to 18, assaults up 10 to 25. Petty larceny, however, dropped to 188.

In juvenile crime it was all pluses. The number of juveniles arrested climbed from 85 to 125. There were similar increases in the number who appeared before Howard U. Stepp, Chairman of the Juvenile Conference Committee, and the number who were referred to the Mercer County Court.

AAUW PLANS PROGRAM

On Japanese Women. The daily life of Japanese women will be discussed at 8:15 p.m. next Wednesday by a study unit of the Princeton Branch of the American Association of University Women. The session will be held in the auditorium of Community Park School.

Members of the Occident and Orient Study Group include Mrs. Harold G. Johnson, Mrs. William Kampfer, Mrs. Benjamin Miller, Mrs. Frank V. Shalleross, Mrs. John R. Stanton, Miss Dorothy Wagner and Mrs. Clair Zepp.

Hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Alfred Opler, Mrs. Bennett Richards, Mrs. Frank Shapiro, Mrs. E. E. Smith and Mrs. Carl Gilt.

A second orientation course is planned for March and those interested may contact Mrs. Shorter at Community Park School.

PCD SETS DATES

TV DEBATES DEBATED: Should a president engage in TV debates? Yes, in the opinion of bimiler Nick Mauro who feels it helps the voter decide. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think a president seeking reelection should engage in TV debates or not?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Mrs. Peter Loret, 96 Dempsey Avenue, housewife: The president's public image is important. However, qualified men often do not appear at their best in this situation and perhaps we would find we were choosing the winner of a personality contest instead of choosing from the standpoint of true executive ability.

Edward Horner, Ringoes, youth director, Princeton YMCA: Yes, because it presents a truer picture as to how the man thinks as an individual and therefore he doesn't necessarily speak in the cliches of his party. Especially if the debate is spontaneous and free wheeling, they will often depart from pat answers. It would help reveal the man to the voters. Too often, I think, the people get a distorted image as to what the candidates are really like. They are often misquoted. I'm not sure, however, if Johnson's advisors would want him to participate in any debate unless his image had slipped a lot in the meantime.

Mrs. Eugene Maybury, 39 Humber Street, housewife: Yes, because I think the people should be able to see what each can do under pressure. That's part of their job—being able to communicate and get their points across.

Nick Mauro, 35 Hillsdale Road, building contractor: I think it would be a pretty good idea. It would give the people a chance to see him, how he speaks, how he reacts. If you don't see him, how can you decide how to vote?

George Kirk, Bordentown, carpenter, employee of Nick Mauro: No, I don't think it is dignified for the president to have a debate on TV. He says enough in other ways as president without having to go on TV to expose his ideas to the people.

Mrs. Dean Meyerson, Van Dyke Road, housewife: I don't think it is a question of whether he should or not. I think it's totally political. He will if he thinks it will be to his advantage. I don't think there is any way we can get the president to debate if he thinks it would hurt him.

Alec Lesa, 132 Spruce Street, janitor, Princeton University: Yes, I think he should in order to let the people know what he's got on his mind. You don't elect a man if you don't know what he's going to do and what he stands for.

Mrs. Owen Cooper, 63 Knoll Drive, housewife: Surely there should be a strong enough person running for president that he should be able to speak and get his ideas and feelings across to the people. I don't think a president should be afraid to debate. If he is, he shouldn't be president.

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

January 28, 1959. It had just been reported in January 1959 that officers of the Second Presbyterian Church in Princeton were "weighing the merits of building a new church in the Township and of selling the property at Nassau and Chambers." Announcement of the decision was "said to be imminent." Change the date from 1959 to 1964 and the story could be re-run as is.

Four elderly pillars of Princeton were causing lots of talk around town. The vexing question was "What to do about them?" The four, stony-faced and erect, weren't saying anything.

They were, in fact, neo-ionic pillars which supported the historic portico that was once part of the Maxwell house on Mercer Road. To their rescue came, in January 1959, The Princeton Portico Fund, which raised sufficient money to have the entire marble colonnade moved across Mercer Road where it now stands guards over the graves of American and British soldiers who fell in the battle of Princeton.

Princeton University students studying "Modern America" under Prof. Eric Goldman had completed a work project entailing a number of changes in the United States Constitution. Of special interest then and now were those pertaining to the line of Presidential succession in case of emergency — a problem which the students worked out in 1959 but which the government still apparently can't solve to much of anyone's satisfaction in 1964.

TEN YEARS AGO

January 27, 1954. The nickel which long since had become obsolete as the price of a cup of coffee or a good cigar, would no longer cover a coin box telephone call after the end of January 1954. The rate was going up to a dime and was the only rate increase granted Bell Tel by the State Public Utilities Commission.

"Department of Utter Confusion," had been the lead for a classified ad in TOWN TOP-AWARD RECIPIENT: Dr. Joseph Nichols of Princeton (left) receives the Johnson Medal for Research and Development from Philip B. Hoffman, chairman of the board of directors of Johnson and Johnson. Dr. Nichols is associate director of Ethicon, Incorporated.

ICS issue the previous week in 1954. "Will the party who invited us for dinner Saturday call again? We don't know where to go."

The ad had brought these results:

A prompt call from the prospective hostess reissuing the invitation.

Upwards of a dozen calls from other friends, promising dinner invitations "if confusion still reigned."

One call from a total stranger also offering dinner.

Members of the Princeton Business Association were scheduled to meet the next Monday in 1954 in the Nassau Tavern to hear a talk on "Are You Wasting Your Advertising Dollars?" Orators on the subject were two principals in a small Trenton advertising agency so their answer is hard to guess: "Of course not — IF you are our clients."

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

January 28, 1949. Violent death had come to an outstanding student at Princeton High School the preceding Saturday. On River Road, Rudolph Shelton, a 17-year-old junior and three sport star had left a group talking at a friend's house, had borrowed a car belonging to one of them. Half an hour later he was found along the road, pinned in the mashed overturned car. Next day, young Shelton had died in Princeton Hospital of a fractured skull.

Samuel Howell Princeton undergraduate, was busy collecting clothing for Robert Power, impoverished Irish fisherman with a family of six in County Waterford, Ireland. The preceding summer young Howell had tossed a bottle overboard in mid-Atlantic, giving his name and address and suggesting that the finder write him.

An answer from Power led a correspondence that had resulted in the one man clothing drive.

In pleasant contrast to early January 1964, the temperature in 1949 had averaged some 20 degrees warmer than readings in Southern California in 1954. Princetonians might take some cold comfort that it really wasn't much colder here than it has been recently in Miami.

RACE IS RENEWED

Against Penn Five on TV. Aware that one more unexpected loss such as that to Columbia ten days ago will ruin its chances of a successful title defense, Princeton's basketball team will return to the wars Saturday against Pennsylvania. The 2 p.m. contest in Dillon Gymnasium will be televised as part of the Eastern College Athletic Conference weekly program. It may be seen over Channel 4, New York, and Channel 10, Philadelphia.

The Tigers are favored to win without undue difficulty because of the home court surroundings that have been a tranquilizer to the inconsistent players shuttling in and out to form a team with Bradley. None of them is in double figures for the season, but several of them have made major contributions to Dillon Gym victories achieved by Princeton.

For a team that was more heavily hit by graduation than any other in the league, Penn is playing extremely good basketball this season. A year ago, the Quakers had four seniors and a junior in their starting lineup; today, the erstwhile junior is Captain Ramon Carazo and four sophomores go with him.

The pick is Jeff Neuman, a 6-1 backcourt operative whose clutch foul shooting upset Yale at the Palestra earlier this month. Stan Pawlak, 6-2, who broke the Penn freshman scoring record last year, is also a constant threat, while 6-7 Jack Hellings provides the height.

Carazo pairs with Neuman in the back court and has a fine eye from outside the circle. The Quakers come into the game with a 3-1 mark in Ivy action—unable to handle Cornell at Ithaca as Princeton did. On the other hand, they got by Columbia at New York without undue difficulty the night before the Lions kept Princeton from going into the exam break as the only unbeaten team in the league.

Tigers' Future Uncertain. A year ago, despite early losses to Penn, Yale and Cornell, there was reason to believe that Princeton might make it to the top in the stretch run. The combination of Bill Bradley and Art Hyland turned the trick—because Hyland was a tremendous play-maker and consistent outside shot.

More than halfway through the current season, the fact that Bradley is better than ever isn't enough—because nothing close to Hyland's play-making and outside shooting is available to provide the necessary balance. After Bradley's fantastic 32.9 average, the next three figures are 8.7 (Bob Haarlow), 8.4 (Don Rodenbach) and 5.5 (Rick Wright). The discrepancy is so great that it finally brought defeat by a routine Columbia quintet when seven Princeton players other than Bradley averaged 4.2 on the evening.

Expectations are that an 11-3 mark will be good enough for at least a share of first place—it was last year. There is reason to believe that the league has sufficient balance so that every team which has lost at least once in its first five games will drop at least two more in its last nine.

Princeton's problem, therefore, is first of all to make sure it is not upset at home, with Penn and Cornell the toughest of the five teams left in Dillon Gym. Unless they are to fall far below expectations, the Tigers can handle this assignment.

The difficulty then, lies in the five remaining road games, with contests at Cambridge (February 7), New Haven (February 21) and Philadelphia (March 4) the big troublemakers.

Yale and Penn are the obvious pitfalls, but Harvard has almost invariably given Princeton major difficulty on its own court. Last year, the Crimson held Bradley to what is still his lowest point total in two seasons—15—as his mates struggled to an uphill 74-60 victory.

SKATERS HEAD NORTH

Face Dartmouth Saturday. A New England trip opening with a game against Dartmouth at Hanover Saturday night will begin the second half of the Princeton hockey team's schedule. The Tigers (4-7 on the season) face Middlebury in Vermont Monday on the way home.

The 1-0 whitewash of Cornell in its final game before exams gave the Orange and Black renewed confidence in its defensive ability, which had been subject to some battering in the early action. Goalie Dick Reece turned in much the best performance of his career in holding the Ithacans scoreless, after they had beaten him five times in an overtime win at Ithaca.

The Tigers may be heading into something of a hornet's nest at Hanover, where Dartmouth's hockey fortunes have turned upward with the arrival on the varsity of a number of promising sophomores. The Indians (6-4 to date) upset unbeaten Brown at Providence, 5-3, Saturday and also have a 5-2 triumph over Yale to their credit.

Dartmouth's only league loss is to Harvard, which had to come from behind on its own ice to win, 4-3. If the Indians triumph Saturday, they'll take over first place in the Ivy standings.

The game at Hanover will see five Princeton Country Day alumni in action. Steve Cook, Pony Fraker and George Peterson are wings for the Tigers, with Howard McMorris busy as a defenseman. Charlie Stuart starts at defense for Dartmouth.

OFF-SEASON NOTE
Football Changes Due. No sooner had the Football Rules Committee authorized a virtual return to two-platoon football than Princeton's coaching staff began to make plans to take advantage of the liberalized substitution rule in 1964.

CHANGES WELCOMED: Dick Colman is much in favor of rules change returning unlimited substitutions to college football for 1964.

After nine straight years of revision—the first, in 1953, veering drastically away from unlimited substitutions and the others returning to the policy at a snail's pace—the pattern in intercollegiate football may be set for a few seasons to come. If so, a great majority of the coaches and most of the fans will be happy—but no one is counting on it in view of the constant wheeling and dealing executed by the Rules Committee during the past decade.

For the upcoming season, at any rate, a coach may send in an entire new team whenever the clock is stopped. This eliminates the incredibly confusing procedure in effect last fall, which permitted wholesale substitutions on second and third downs, but only two players on first and fourth downs. There were variations so complex that even the officials occasionally were confused.

The gimmick in the 1964 rules is that wholesale substitutions may be made only when the clock is stopped. Accordingly, if he is unwilling to use up one of his four time outs, a coach may be caught with a team of offensive specialists on the field when the opposition recovers a fumble.

The new rule will, therefore, almost certainly require coaches to continue "two-way teaching," while simultaneously permitting the use of more players. It is that factor, of course, which appeals so much to most Ivy League coaches, in sharp contrast to their contemporaries who are busy counting the number of athletic scholarships their colleges allow.

Dick Colman, long an outspoken advocate of a return to unlimited substitutions, calls the rules change "most welcome." He looks forward to "a return to the game which will allow more boys to participate."

and coaches to use these boys in situations and positions where they perform best." Just what policy Princeton will follow next season will be determined by the coaching staff during the late winter and spring—when much paper work evaluating each player's potential is accomplished in lieu of spring practice. In addition to this chore, the coaches have another major problem confronting them: Ron Bonomo, two-year letterman at guard who had been largely counted on for middle-of-the-line strength next fall, has withdrawn from college for disciplinary reasons.

PHS WALLETS EWING

Keep Playoff Hopes Alive. One of the two "must" games the Princeton High School basketball team had on win if it hopes to be invited to participate in the annual post-season playoffs turned out to be a breeze instead of a battle. Friday evening, the Little Tigers ran away from visiting Ewing High School and coasted to a 76-56 victory.

According to PHS coach Tony Borzok, every school must send a record of its first ten games to the NJISAA committee. He added that a school usually has to have won at least half of its first ten in order to be considered. After nine games, the Little Tigers were 4-5; for the result of Tuesday's game with Hamilton High, see page 28.

As Princeton enters the second half of its 18-game schedule, coming up are contests with Freehold here on Friday evening at 7:30 and a return game with Ewing. The latter will be played Tuesday evening at 7:30 on Ewing's court. Of Freehold, Borzok said that he was unfamiliar with its record this year.

KLINKMANSHIP: Kerry Klink, junior backcourt hustler for Princeton High School, is constantly trying to steal the ball from Little Tiger opponents and disrupt their attack.

minded PHS posted a 14-4 record, its top effort was 69 points.

Heiberger Hits. When Pele Heiberger hit for 20 points he finally accomplished what Borzok had been predicting since the start of the season. Pete's performance is even more impressive when considered along with the fact that previously his best effort had been only seven points which he reached on three occasions.

Hines continues to amaze. Since joining the varsity six games ago, the 5-9 sophomore has pumped through 120 points for a sparkling 20-point average. His closest teammate in this department is Jim Tucker who has connected for 91 points and a 10-point average.

What makes the diminutive Hines even more valuable is that he does everything well. In addition to those 20 points, Wilbur pulled down seven rebounds and was credited with six assists. The tandem 20-point performances were another first for the Blue and White this year. Not once last season did two members score 20 points or more in a single game.

While Hines and Heiberger were grabbing the spotlight, Jim Tucker continued to play a strong game for the victors under the boards. He also chipped in with 17 points. Co-captain Tom Waters and playmaker Kerry Klink turned in the usual steady performances their followers have come to expect.

Reach Half-Way Mark: Ewing represented the half-way mark in Princeton's 18-game schedule. At this juncture last winter, PHS was in a much more favorable position.

Then it had won six of nine and would go on to win eight of its second nine for a fine 14-4 record. That this year's team is lagging can be traced in part to a more ragged defense.

In 1963, PHS held its opponents to a 45-point average per game while averaging 50 itself. This year, PHS is averaging 54 points but its opponents are hitting at a 56 per-game clip. And therein lies the tale.

HUN WINS IN OVERTIME

As Leon Breaks Wrist. Led by captain Scott Page of Trenton, who scored a season high of 23 points, Hun School edged Bryn Athyn here Saturday in the Princeton Seminary gym, 52-51, in overtime.

The victory was a costly one, however. Veteran guard Mike Leon, defending against a fast break play, slammed into a wall and broke his wrist. Hun coach Bob Simpson said Leon, who had averaged six points a game for the Red and Black will be lost for the rest of the season. He is a junior.

"Mike did a really good job for us," said Simpson, "and his absence is going to hurt us." Simpson added that Bob Rothstein and Scott Anderson would battle for Leon's position. Rothstein has an edge in experience, having scored 16 points this season while Anderson has yet to score.

Ahead are two important Penn-Jersey League contests which Hun, currently 4-2 in league play, must win if it is to maintain its position. The more important meeting will be a 3:15 clash with Moorestown Friends Saturday at the Seminary court followed by a return game Wednesday with George School at Newtown, Pa.

According to Simpson, every team in the League has lost twice with the exception of Moorestown. "This game," he said, "will tell us a great deal. We're looking forward to playing them." George School handed Hun its first defeat earlier in the season and the Red and Black would like to repay in kind.

Bryn Athyn, an easy 77-51 victim of Hun in the opener for both schools, believed in the infallibility of mathematics, it would have realized that the home team was destined to win this most hotly-contested of their meetings. So far this season, Hun has won every odd-numbered game — and lost every even-numbered one. Bryn Athyn was its seventh opponent.

According to Simpson, Hun met a much-improved Bryn Athyn team. "We didn't play badly," he said. "The first time we met, Bryn Athyn just wasn't grouped yet. They were a much better team this time. It was real tense all the way."

Hun, which led most of the game, faltered in the closing minutes and saw the visitors tie it 48-48 with 30 seconds to go. Then, in the pressure-packed overtime, Scott Page, scored all of Hun's four points.

DO YOU KNOW...

NEW JERSEY

in community planning!

Sound and orderly development is a fundamental objective of progressive communities and is now an important part of local government in New Jersey. With the state's rapid economic and population growth it has become important to "balance" a community's structure. Eighty-five per cent of New Jersey's 568 municipalities have established planning boards, 243 have completed and 168 have adopted master plans, 243 New Jersey municipalities have participated in the federal-state "701" planning program and 18 of New Jersey's 21 counties have official planning boards. New Jersey in 1950 became the first state in the nation to have a statewide development plan. What does all this planning mean? With New Jersey's excellent access to markets, its modern transportation facilities and large supply of skilled labor, enlightened planning also provides space for industrial expansion. Through the master plan, then, industry is encouraged, not displaced, and its citizens profit through the economic growth of our state.

PENNINGTON WINS. Last week, playing in the cramped Pennington School gymnasium, which resembles more some medieval torture box, Hun was tripped up 59-52. Trailing most of the time, Hun managed to knot the score at 34-all but then fell behind again as Pennington rebounded with two quick baskets.

"I hate to alibi, but I definitely feel we can beat them when we get them in our own gym," said Simpson. "The foul circle is only one step away from the center circle — that's how small it is," he continued. "There are balcony overhangs in all the corners extending over the live playing area and our boys hit these on several occasions. On many occasions we lost the ball without even taking a shot."

Miller took top scoring honors for Hun with 18. Page, who dropped to his lowest output of the season, followed with 13.

CYANAMID UNDEFEATED

IN YMCA BASKETBALL. Roger Hedeman scored two foul shots in the last three seconds of play to give American Cyanamid a 59-57 victory over ETS in the YMCA Research and Industrial League.

Cyanamid trailed ETS by 12 points at halftime. The winners finally tied the score at 57-57 with 30 seconds to go before Hedeman sank the foul shots.

The triumph was the sixth for undefeated Cyanamid and it gave the leaders a two-game edge in the standings. Robert Montgomery scored 26 points for the winners, one more than Clarence Gilbert of ETS.

In other games in the first night of second-half play, Astro B defeated Princeton Hospital, 65-23, and Western Electric best Astro A, 45-40.

Mike Hogg scored 20 points for fifth place Astro D.

LARRIES TO RESUME

After Exam Break, Lawrenceville School athletic teams get back into action this week following a two-week lay off due to mid-year examinations.

With the exception of the hockey team, all squads resume play Saturday. There was action on the Lavino Rink ice Wednesday as the Larries opposed the Hill School. Saturday's opponent is the Lehigh University Hockey Club.

The basketball team will be looking for its fourth straight victory and sixth in seven contests on Saturday against Blair Academy. In other action at home, the swimming team will oppose Haverford, the track squad St. Benedict's and the Red and Black fencers will meet Ramapo Regional High. The Larry wrestlers will travel to Wallingford, Conn., for a match with Choate.

News Of The CHURCHES

TALENT SCOUTS AT WORK
Pulpits Scanned Regularly.
That stranger sitting next to you in church on Sunday may be scouting your minister.

He probably has a companion across the aisle who's also taking in every word of your pastor's sermon, judging oratory, sincerity, clarity of thought and warmth of personality. He may even be counting the house.

The pulpit committees searching for a new clergymen adopt the ways of major league scouts. They watch the man in action first.

"We try to be inconspicuous, but we can't," says Thomas L. Sharp, chairman of Hillsborough Presbyterians' pulpit committee. "We go out, usually in teams, as far as we can travel on a Sunday morning. After we hear quite a few of these men, we go back and hear some of them a second time. Then we talk to the man . . ."

Who's Looking. Six churches in this area have fielded scouting teams: First Baptist, Princeton; Hopewell Presbyterian, Bunker Hill Lutheran, Griggstown; Community Presbyterian of the Sand Hills, Franklin Park, Hillsborough Presbyterian and Blawenburg Reformed. Three have found success, and three are still looking.

First Baptist ended its 20-months search this month when the Rev. Edward Smith preached his first sermon as the new pastor. He was hired from the Fredericksburg (Va.) Baptist Church.

"We contacted about 26 clergymen," says Norman Whiting, First Baptist's chairman. "We interviewed seven." The candidates came and preached at various times, so that both they and the congregation could look one another over. Also on the committee were Paul Brown, Pleasant Phox, Theodore Kennedy and Miss Grace Brown, secretary.

The Rev. Mr. Smith has held pastorates "up and down the Rappahannock." Until June he will be in Fredericksburg weekdays where he is principal of Poole Junior High School. He is president of the Fredericksburg NAACP, vice-president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference for Northern Virginia, and a member of the Fredericksburg Bi-racial Commission.

A graduate of Virginia Union College, Richmond, with a master's degree from Columbia in public school administration, the Rev. Mr. Smith is 40 years old, married, and the father of a 10-year-old daughter.

And Now To Vote. A try-out sermon was preached at Hopewell Presbyterian on January 12 by the Rev. Robert A. Beringer, 28, finalist in a seven-months' search.

A graduate of Cornell University and Princeton Seminary, Class of 1961, he has held full charge of the large (1,612 members) Bound Brook Presbyterian Church since the pastor left last May.

A congregational vote was scheduled following the service, and as he spoke, "You could have heard a pin drop," a member said.

"We are really thrilled with this man," says William Cranston, Hopewell chairman. "He's one of the better preaching ministers that I've heard." He noted that the Bound Brook Presbyterian Church "wants him to stay, but he feels he wants experience in a smaller church—that it would give him a better foundation to build upon."

The Hopewell group hunted in pairs, culling 40 names from 125 submitted by the Presbytery. "One Sunday we hit four churches," Mr. Cranston says with amusement. "We made re-visits—another group would check if the first was uncertain."

NEW PASTOR: "It's a kind of homecoming for us," says the Rev. Robert A. Beringer, newly-appointed pastor of Hopewell Presbyterian Church. He and Mrs. Beringer lived in this area while he was a student at Princeton Seminary. Now terminating his duties at First Presbyterian Church, Bound Brook, he will begin at Hopewell on March 1.

The Tip-off. "Sometimes the minister knows you're coming. In some cases, you have to check with the church to make sure the minister will be preaching. This is a tip-off . . ."

"In small churches, two or three strange faces in the congregation . . . they know what you're there for!"

Also helping in the seven-months' search were Mrs. Florence Bodine, Donald Chaffey, Mrs. Barbara Deering, Samuel K. Hunt, Mrs. Mary H. Jenkins, John Lamson, Alan Mayhew, Robert Telfer and John A. Wolfkeil.

"What we were working for," says Mr. Cranston of Sunday's voting, "is almost a unanimous decision by our congregation. We wanted 90% or better. A minister has to feel his congregation is behind him." Mr. Beringer won a unanimous vote.

Trust. Members of Bunker Hill Lutheran Church in Griggstown have never seen their new minister, the Rev. Sanford Soma. Neither the pulpit committee, headed by Archie Anderson, distance is the reason. The Rev. Mr. Soma, who undertakes his new duties next month, is serving Elm Lutheran Church in faraway Osakis, Minn.

A number of names came before the group "but we took the recommendation of Mr. Aase, who's a friend of his," Mr. Anderson says. The committee had been at work since the Rev. George Aase left in October.

Hard to Replace. Two clergymen, who have organized new churches since retirement after long years in the ministry are the Rev. Dr. Orion C. Hopper of Hillsborough Presbyterian and the Rev. Dr. Jarvis Morris of Community Presbyterian Church. Both are serving as interim pastors while their reluctant congregations search for younger ministers.

At Hillsborough, "we've had lists of about 60 since the middle of the summer. We get a three-page dossier on each man from the national office in Columbus and we select the ones to visit," comments Mr. Sharp. "We're now down to about three."

The Ideal. "We early decided," says Hopewell's Mr. Cranston, "that preaching is number 1 in importance. About equal, though, is pastoral duties, the visitations and counseling. We rated youth work next. Teaching, evangelism and church administration were in about that order."

Mr. Sharp in Hillsborough comments on the clergymen's side of the matter.

"Some ministers may not be interested in us," he notes. "Some young men may be interested in a big city church or in an area where they can do some missionary work. Some want a place a little more established than we are . . . some just the opposite. Our closeness to Princeton

No Move Contemplated

The congregation of Second Presbyterian Church voted Sunday to raise $80,000 for rehabilitation of the sanctuary.

"This means, I suppose," says the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton, pastor, "that the church has decided to stay where it is for the next decade . . . It hasn't been an easy decision."

seems to make us attractive to a number of them, however."

About 15 to 20 churches have been scouted so far. Assisting Mr. Sharp are Elmer Beach, Vern Swanson, Mrs. Donald Bardo, Mrs. Lawrence Cornell and Miss Ann Leach.

Even Teens. Probably the only undiscovered scouts from the area are two Hopewell teenagers: Merrill Mellott, a Princeton High School graduate now in the service, and Mary Moran, a senior at the high school.

"We feel that church growth, its activities in the future, will depend a great deal upon its youth," says Mr. Cranston, pleased to have them on his committee.

Colonial Restaurant held a 7½-game lead over Johnson Electric in the Three-Man Classic League. The leaders have been credited with 34½ victories including one tie.

Joe Baldino had two of the league's ten 200-plus games. He was the scoring leader with a 205-238-194-637 series. Joe Tzani and Bill Cavanaugh each hit 223 and other scores were Frank Maddalon, 214; Mike Basile and Vince Graziano, 209 each; Bill Dumble, 208; Bruce Hornstein, 204; and Gene Oc-Risi, 203.

Jefferson Plumbing, with 70 points, held a 12-point edge over Clarendine Wine and Liquor and 14-point margin over Nas-San Shoe Repair in the Business Woman's League. Hazel Robbins registered a 184 score, Evelyn Enyedy, 170, Peg Ranallo, 168; and Evelyn Walton, 167 and 162.

The Sharks and the Tigers, each with 24 points, shared the lead at the end of the first quarter in the YMCA Blue Angels League. Curt Mitchell edged Harry Calin, 157-156, for scoring honors and Rich Volz had a 142 score.

CELTICS ROUT WARRIOR

Keep Lead in Y League. The Celts defeated the Warriors, 39-19, to up their record to 4-1 and maintain the lead in the YMCA Junior High Basketball League. Outstanding for the Celts were Charlie Madden and John Tucker who combined for 18 points.

Earlier, the second-place Globetrotters (3-2) defeated the Beetles, 40-29. Marty Hinds and John Madden paced the victors.

Saturday, the Y All-Stars dropped a close 46-42 decision to the visiting Y team from Long Branch. A return game will be played at Long Branch February 15.

This Saturday, the four teams in the League will meet each other from 10 to 12 noon at the Princeton High gym. The Celts will oppose the Beetles and the Globetrotters will face the Warriors.

MRS. MEADE WINS SQUASH

Beating Princetonians En Route. Mrs. Newton Meade of Philadelphia, the fourth-ranking women's squash player in the nation, defeated Mrs. Donald Manley-Power, also of Philadelphia Saturday to win the New Jersey State Women's Squash Championship at Pretty Brook Tennis Club. The scores of the final match were 15-10, 15-7 and 15-6.

Mrs. Meade defeated Mrs. Bayard Stockton in the semi-finals and Mrs. David Frothingham in the quarter-finals. Both losers are from Princeton and were among 21 area participants in the tournament.

Mrs. Hallett Johnson was the third Princetonian to reach the quarter-finals, losing to Mrs. Stockton in that round. In the consolation final, Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding, also of Princeton, was defeated by Miss Agnes Bixler, 17-18, 15-6, 15-10 and 15-11.

The tournament was held Wednesday through Saturday and was sponsored by the Princeton Women's Squash Racquets Association. The championship was open to all amateurs, whether or not they were from New Jersey.

TO OFFER GOLF LESSONS

At Cranbury Club. The Cranbury Golf Club will begin its instruction program February 9.

The Sunday afternoon golf lessons will each last one hour for 10 consecutive weeks. The charge for the course is $10 per person. Youngsters under 12 will be able to take a half-hour instruction at half the price.

Mario Carfagno, a professional golfer, will be the course instructor. Classes for beginners and those who haven't played in several years will meet at 2:30 and the advanced class is scheduled for 3:30.

In bad weather, the course will be held in a lesson barn which has 6000 square feet of floor space. Those wishing to enroll should call the club at 799-0341.

ST. PAUL'S WIN AGAIN

In Catholic Junior League, St. Paul's had little trouble defeating St. John's, 30-16, last week in a contest in the Catholic Junior Basketball League. The losers were limited to one basket from the floor.

St. Paul's had its opponent in a virtual stranglehold from the beginning when it raced to a 14-2 first-period margin. Mike Maguire hit for 12 points and Tim Kearns connected for 10 to account for most of their team's total.

PHS SUFFERS SETBACK

Loss Jars Tourney Hopes. A decisive 81-60 defeat at the hands of Hamilton High School Tuesday made possible entry in the post-season tournament unlikely for Princeton High School's basketball team. The Little Tigers have now dropped six of their first ten games, a percentage figure below the normal cutoff for entry in the playoffs.

Hamilton was slow getting under way, PHS taking brief leads of 10-7 and 25-23 in the first half. However, the home quintet, a considerably stronger team this winter than in recent years, moved out to a 35-29 advantage at the intermission.

Thereafter, it was all Hamilton. Three of the Little Tigers (Pete Heiberger, 20; Tom Waters, 16; and Wilbur Hines, 10) were in double figures but this was more than offset by five players on the visitors' team. The triumph was the tenth for Hamilton against three defeats.

Something of a split in the evening's honors was achieved by the Princeton High Jayvees, who topped the Hamilton reserves, 73-64. Lou Balestrieri was high with 19 for the Little Tiger junior varsity, which led at the half, 34-27—in winning its ninth game in ten starts.

WE NOMINATE

Henry Askey Barton, one of the nation's top-notch scientists, administration and in a very real sense a "scion of behind scientists," who over the weekend brought to Princeton its third major physics award of the past five months, the Karl Taylor Compton Medal, the highest honor conferred by The American Institute of Physics and a prize that has only been awarded thrice since its founding in 1957. Where Robert Oppenheimer (The Linco Fermi Award) and Eugene Paul Wigner (The Nobel Prize) were singled for what might be termed "creativity of effort," the 65-year old Barton was cited for his "outstanding statesmanship in the organization of American physics."

A founder in 1931 with Dr. Compton and others of The American Institute, and its tireless director until his "retirement" in 1957, Barton was the pivotal force in the development of this federation of learned societies which today acts as the central organization and publishing arm for organized physics—and for the majority of recognized physicists in the United States. Under his leadership, as the world moved through a series of scientific upheavals, the Institute grew from a handful to a present-day membership of some 25,000, and to the point where it now sponsors the 15 top journals of physics in America as well as a number of professional, educational, and public relations services.

Barton's many-faceted career in science was suggested by the citation for the Compton Medal, which was presented at the annual joint meeting of the American Physical Society and the American Association of Physics Teachers. For instance, it stressed "his skill in presenting the physics journals of America on a sound financial basis and thus assisting in bringing them to the high position they now have; the outstanding physics publications of the world; equal attention was paid to his efforts to encourage further applications of physics to industry and his advocacy of policies promoting the creative utilization of skilled scientific manpower in periods of national crisis.

Long a commissioner on the Scientific Manpower Commission, a non-governmental agency established and sustained by the major scientific societies in the United States, Barton, a native of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, has over the decades shared his remarkable administrative capacities with the Federal Government. For 12 years vice-chairman of the Division of Physical Sciences of the Washington-headquartered National Research Council, he brought into being the Council's office of Scientific Personnel and during World War II (in addition to other duties) was consultant to the National Roser of Scientific and Specialized Personnel for the War Manpower Commission.

One of the handful of residents of Princeton to hold four course degrees from Princeton University (B.S., L.L. M.V., and Ph.D.), and for some years a director of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, Barton interrupted his studies with the Princeton Class of 1919 to enlist in the World War I "heavy artillery." In the decade preceding his designation as the first director of the American Institute, he was affiliated with the research and development department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, qualified for his advanced degrees at Princeton, held research positions at both Harvard and the Bell Telephone Laboratory, and served with the physical faculty at Cornell.

For many years he has been constantly seeking to strengthen science as a vital factor in this nation's continuing development, by shaping policies for physics research publication which have been of immeasurable importance to scientists everywhere; for his fine understanding of the
